The EFS site is run by volunteers. We do our best to have accurate information on the site, but can make no guarantees. Use the site at your own risk: verify information before traveling 100 miles to a dance, for example.

When you provide information, such as when you fill out a form, you agree to provide accurate information. When that information changes, we request that you inform us so that our information is accurate.

Any content shared with us, such as photos, will fall under the site copyright, but members may copy site information for their own personal use.

Do not provide us with any material for display on the site that is copyrighted unless you are authorized to give us permission for its use.
